Rev David Fender's Message

There's a comic where he asks, "who wants change?" and the crowd before him raises their hands. Then he asks, "who wants to change?" and the same crowd keep their hands down.

Last year we made a choice that we wanted change. In coming together as one multisite congregation we affirmed that we wanted to engage in God's ongoing mission. And that decision must inevitably lead us into change. Because churches, like all other living things are constantly changing. The promise that stands before us includes reaching more people for Jesus, including children, youth and young families and that we will show the love of Jesus to our neighbours. But this promise brings with it a change. Already, you may be noticing some things that are changing. No longer does our church council consist of only those people who we worship with on Sunday; we are sharing our buildings with others; for some events we have to travel to other properties; no longer is everything done in the way that it used to be done.

I wonder how you cope with change. For myself I find that the best way to start is to keep change in perspective. Change is an inevitable part of life and we have all been through various changes in the past. Some we have liked; others have not been so great. Depending on our personality we might resign ourselves to the change, we might resist it, or we might embrace it. I pray and hope that you will embrace this change with me. Our process of change will be collaborative, measured, clearly articulated, well communicated, and purposeful. Pause and ask yourself, is it change or turbulence that people dislike. When we engage in the process of change, we are part of discovering the outcome and it becomes more palatable.

The second thing about change is to remember the presence and promise of God. "Be strong and courageous. Do not be afraid or terrified because of them, for the Lord your God goes with you; he will never leave you nor forsake you." (Deuteronomy 31:6)

It is easy to believe this promise when things are stable and predictable. It's when we are in unfamiliar territory that we are tempted to doubt the promises of God. But yet it's in these times that we need to be ever mindful that our God is greater than any change before us and that he can take us through to the other side. I have found that it is in the process of change and upheaval that my relationship with God grows stronger, more intimate and more spiritually satisfying.

Perhaps this is because while everything around me seems to constantly be changing, I then see more clearly the unchanging nature of God's love and care for me that remains solid as a rock.

So, I invite you to reflect on how you may embrace the changes that we are part of now. The pain of change can be lessened when we have all the information that we need. So, I remind you again, that I and the ministry team are always willing to talk with you and share our passion for our congregation and answer your questions. Please get in touch.

Grace and peace

David.

Events

The Gospel of Matthew

On 22nd February, from 9:30am-12pm, Richard will be reading through the Gospel of Matthew. This will take place at Tarragindi Community, 24 Pope Street, Tarragindi. It is a chance for us to hear the whole of the Gospel which the lectionary focuses on for the year.

Following on from that on March 14th 21st and 28th and April 4th from 9:30am-12 Richard will be running a class working through the context of the Gospel, with historical context. This is a chance for us to learn more about the gospel. Those who explored Luke with me last year found it very interesting. This will also take place at Tarragindi.

How will we sing the Lord's song in this land?

We live in a world that is complex, diverse and changing rapidly. God's people find themselves grappling with a missional context that has not been experienced before. It is an environment that we don't completely understand, we are not trained for or have much experience in.

The reality is that for the vast majority of Australians, the local church is invisible or viewed as irrelevant. For those of us who are part of Southside, we know (either consciously or unconsciously) that something has got to change if we are going to faithfully communicate the gospel to the world around us.

By coming together as Southside, we have committed ourselves to being open to change. But the question remains, what changes are needed so that we may show the relevance of the gospel in the neighbourhoods that we live?

This is a big challenge that faces us today and so we echo the cry of the psalmist: "How will we sing the Lord's song in a strange land?"

The big question for us today is how we can embrace a new beginning in God's mission in our local neighbourhood in 2020 and beyond.

We are going to continue to look at this throughout this year and beyond.

To start with we are going to have a workshop on Friday 28 February 7 – 9 pm and Saturday 29 February 9 – 3pm.

Everyone in the congregation is invited and welcome to attend.

There is no cost and food will be provided.
